SEAN F. MCAVOY, CLERK

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

ALAA ELKHARWILY,
Plaintiff,
vs.

FIRST INTERSTATE BANK, a
Montana corporation and state-
chartered bank, and LPSL
CORPORATE SERVICES, INC., and
MATHEW WADDELL, JENNIFER
MATTSON, AND THEIR COMMUNITY PROPERTY,

Defendants.

NO: 2:25-CV-0104-TOR
ORDER ON PENDING MOTIONS

BEFORE THE COURT are Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Complaint (ECF No. 137); Defendants Waddell and Mattson's Joinder in Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 138); and various other motions. The Court has reviewed the record and files herein and is fully informed.

I. Dismissal

Plaintiff has filed a Second Amended Complaint, ECF No. 43, which

1 primarily attacks the state court receivership imposed on Wall Street Apartments.

2 Plaintiff's complaint is 136 pages long and does not properly allege any causes of 3 action.

4       The Full Faith and Credit Act mandates that the "judicial proceedings" of 5 any State "shall have the same full faith and credit in every court within the United 6 States ... as they have by law or usage in the courts of such State . . . from which 7 they are taken." 28 U.S.C. § 1738. Similarly, under the Rooker–Feldman
8 doctrine,<sup>1</sup> a federal district court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to hear a
9 direct appeal from a final judgment of a state court. See Noel v. Hall, 341 F.3d
10 1148, 1155 (9th Cir. 2003). A losing party in state court is thus barred from 11 seeking what in substance would be appellate review of a state judgment in federal 12 district court, even if the party contends the state judgment violated his or her 13 federal rights. Johnson v. DeGrandy, 512 U.S. 997, 1005–06 (1994); Allah v.
14 Superior Court, 871 F.2d 887, 891 (9th Cir. 1989). Together, the Full Faith and 15 Credit Act and the Rooker–Feldman doctrine prevent federal courts from 16 undermining state court orders.

17       Plaintiff is filing this action to take over the Receivership in state court. This 18 he cannot do. Accordingly, Plaintiff's cause of action is dismissed with prejudice.

<sup>1</sup> Rooker v. Fidelity Trust Co., 263 U.S. 413 (1923) and District of Columbia Court of Appeals v. Feldman, 460 U.S. 462 (1983).

1 The Court has reviewed Plaintiff's proposed third amended complaint and it
2 suffers the same problems, so his request to file a third amended complaint is 3 denied.

4 II. Plaintiff's Notice of Judicial Conflict (ECF No. 143)

5 Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455, a district court judge "shall disqualify himself
6 in any proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned." 28
7 U.S.C. § 455(a). For example, the judge must disqualify himself if "he has a 8 personal bias or prejudice concerning a party . . ." 28 U.S.C. § 455(b)(1); United 9 States v. Sibla, 624 F.2d 864, 867 (9th Cir. 1980) (citation omitted) (section
10 445(b)(1) "simply provides a specific example of a situation in which a judge's 11 'impartiality might reasonably be questioned' pursuant to section 455(a).").
12 Judges are presumed impartial. First Interstate Bank of Arizona, N.A. v. Murphy, 13 Weir & Butler, 210 F.3d 983, 987 (9th Cir. 2000). A party has a "substantial 14 burden" in demonstrating otherwise. Fletcher v. Conoco Pipe Line Co., 323 F.3d
15 661, 664 (8th Cir. 2003); In re McCarthey, 368 F.3d 1266, 1269 (10th Cir. 2004).
16 A judge has "as strong a duty to sit when there is no legitimate reason to recuse as 17 he does to recuse when the law and facts require." Clemens v. U.S. Dist. Court for 18 Cent. Dist. of California, 428 F.3d 1175, 1179 (9th Cir. 2005) (citing *Nichols v.
19 Alley*, 71 F.3d 347, 351 (10th Cir. 1995)).

1       The test for section 455(a)—and thus also 455(b)(1)—is “whether a
2 reasonable person with knowledge of all the facts would conclude that the judge’s
3 impartiality might reasonably be questioned.” United States v. Wilkerson, 208
4 F.3d 794, 797 (9th Cir. 2000) (quoting United States v. Hernandez, 109 F.3d 1450,
5 1453 (9th Cir. 1997) (quoting United States v. Studley, 783 F.2d 934, 939 (9th Cir.
6 1986))). “An affidavit filed pursuant to [section 455] is not legally sufficient
7 unless it specifically alleges facts that fairly support the contention that the judge
8 exhibits bias or prejudice directed toward a party that stems from an extrajudicial
9 source.” United States v. Sibla, 624 F.2d at 868 (citation omitted) (bare 10 conclusions devoid of specific facts tending to show personal bias not enough); In 11 re Complaint of Judicial Misconduct, 584 F.3d 1230, 1231 (9th Cir. 2009) (vague
12 accusations insufficient). Importantly, “[r]umor, speculation, beliefs, conclusions,
13 innuendo, suspicion, opinion, and similar non-factual matters” and “mere 14 familiarity with the defendant(s)” are “matters not ordinarily sufficient to require a 15 § 455(a) recusal.” Clemens v. U.S. Dist. Court for Cent. Dist. of California, 428
16 F.3d at 1178–79 (quoting Nichols v. Alley, 71 F.3d at 351). This analysis centers 17 on “[t]he facts proven” and not the “unverified suspicions harbored by the 18 [parties].” In re United States, 158 F.3d 26, 31 (1st Cir. 1998).

19       The standard of review for the denial of a motion for recusal is abuse of 20 discretion. United States v. Martin, 278 F.3d 988, 1005 (9th Cir. 2002) (citations

1 omitted). As the First Circuit explains:

2 At one end are situations in which the hypothesis of partiality is so
3 compelling that the judge has no real choice but to recuse herself. See, e.g.,
4 Fredonia Broad. Corp. v. RCA Corp., 569 F.2d 251 (5th Cir. 1978) (involving a recusal motion based upon one party's representation by the 5 judge's former law clerk, who had served in that capacity during a prior trial of the same action). At the other end are situations in which the hypothesis 6 of partiality is so tenuous that the judge has no real choice but to sit. See
7 Blizzard v. Frechette, 601 F.2d 1217 (1st Cir. 1979) (involving a recusal motion based upon nothing more than a judge's criticism of a party and her case in an opinion). Between these two polar extremes lies a zone in which 8 the district judge's discretion holds sway. See In re U.S., 666 F.2d 690, 695
(1st Cir. 1981). If a case falls within this gray area, a court of appeals ought not to interfere.

9 In re United States, 158 F.3d at 31 (citations altered).

10 Plaintiff's proposed grounds for disqualification are not supported by any 11 facts.
